

Five Cases Disposed Of In County Court

Elmer Bellows Given a Chance During Good Behavior—Sentence on Three Will Be Imposed on Friday—Extra Panel of Jurors Summoned—Pleas Entered on Sealed Indictments.

Five cases were disposed of in county court Monday afternoon at the adjourned date of county court when defendants entered pleas of guilty and were sentenced by the court. County court, which convened in September, adjourned after trying several civil actions until November 10, for trial of criminal work. In addition to the pleas of guilty which were received and the defendants sentenced, there were several other defendants arraigned on sealed indictments and pleas were entered. Three defendants, who entered pleas of guilty, had their cases set down for Friday morning, at 10 o'clock, when sentence will be imposed.

Michael Mandolini of Glasco was arraigned on a charge of having a pistol in his possession without the necessary permit. The act is alleged to have taken place in the town of Saugerties on March 26 of this year. George Kaufman appeared for Michael and entered a plea of guilty. The court imposed a fine of $50, which was paid.

Raymond Decker of Napanoch, indicted by the grand jury on a charge of unlawful entry, entered a plea of guilty and was given eight months in the county jail. He had previously been convicted of grand larceny.

Elmer Bellows of Margaretville, who was indicted for passing a check upon a bank where he had no funds, decided to change his former plea of not guilty to guilty. He bought an automobile from H. Winfield Misner of Pine Hill and gave a check in payment, which proved to be no good. The result was that Bellows was arrested and indicted. District Attorney Traver stated to the court that that Mr. Misner was of the opinion that Bellows would make good if given a chance and suggested to the court that the prisoner be sentenced to Elmira State Reformatory and the sentence suspended during good behavior. Judge Misner was of the opinion that Bellows had been punished enough to learn a lesson.

The suggestion was adopted and Bellows was ordered to report at least once every two weeks to Clark A. Sanford of Margaretville for one year and on the reports made to Mr. Sanford as to what defendant was doing would depend further action of the court.

Louis Harry, colored, charged with having a pistol without a permit, was fined $50 when he entered a plea of guilty. Judge Walter N. Gill appeared for defendant. Harry was indicted for carrying a pistol in the town of Saugerties on July 27. He resides at Malden, where he works on the Staples brickyard. His fine was paid.

Other prisoners arraigned in court entered pleas as follows:

Samuel Yallum, indicted for grand larceny, first degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of New Paltz on September 13, entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks. Bail was fixed at $2,000, which was supplied.

Albert P. Martin, indicted for operating a motor vehicle in the city while intoxicated, entered a plea of not guilty and $250 bail in city court was ordered transferred to the county court. S. G. Carpenter appeared for Martin.

Louis A. Crosby, indicted on the charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated in the town of Hurley on May 31, and also for having a pistol in his possession without a permit, entered a plea of not guilty. N. H. Fessenden appeared for defendant and asked bail be fixed.

William W. Van Keuren of the Saugerties road entered a plea of not guilty to the charge of assault in the second degree alleged to have taken place in the town of Ulster on August 1, when it is alleged he pointed a gun at complainant. Floyd Powell appeared for Van Keuren and bail was fixed at $500.

Jacob Zinkind indicted for manslaughter in the second degree, alleged to have taken place in the town of Esopus, entered a plea of not guilty through his attorney, Frank W. Brooks. Zinkind's indictment grew out of an automobile accident on May 29 last.

Edward Smith, indicted for leaving a place where an accident had happened, where damage to property was done, a violation of subdivision 3, section 290 of the highway law, entered a plea of not guilty. The alleged violation of the law is alleged to have taken place on July 5 at Kingston. Chris J. Flanagan appeared for defendant and asked 10 days to make motions.

In the cases of two young men, Perry and Gordon, indicted for grand larceny, second degree, alleged to have been committed in the town of Lloyd on July 22, pleas of not guilty were entered. Gordon first stated he had an attorney but would plead guilty. Later he changed his plea to not guilty. Perry had no attorney and asked that one be assigned by the court.

William P. Cannon of Stony Hollow, who last year was indicted for driving a car while intoxicated and while under bail for that offense went out and did the same thing again, was indicted again this year on the same old charge. Last year he was let off easy on his promise not to do it again and also that he was leaving the county. He entered a plea of not guilty to the charge which was announced by the district attorney as a second offense in the eyes of the law. Cannon was represented by A. J. Cook who asked for a copy of the indictment and the fixing of bail. Bail was fixed at $500 and was supplied.

Raymond Cole of this city, who was indicted on a charge of driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated on September 29 in this city when arraigned entered a plea of guilty to the charge. Grant McGinnis indicted for unlawful entry to a building alleged to have taken place in this city on July 3, with the case of William Kierster were set down to Friday morning, at 10 o'clock when sentence will be imposed.

Fred J. Park indicted for driving a motor vehicle while intoxicated alleged to have taken place September 29 in Kingston entered a plea of not guilty.

George A. Roberson indicted on the charge of driving while intoxicated in the city on July 19 last, entered a plea of not guilty and his attorney Frank W. Brooks asked that $400 cash bail now in city court be transferred to county court. Ordered.

Raymond Kober indicted for driving while intoxicated on August 12, in Kingston entered a plea of not guilty. Robert Groves appeared for defendant. Bail of $300 was supplied.

May Bush, whose place across the creek in the town of Ulster, was raided by State Troopers some time ago, was indicted by the grand jury on a charge of keeping a disorderly house, maintaining a public nuisance and keeping a place of ill fame. She entered a plea of not guilty. Frank W. Brooks appeared for defendant.

District Attorney Frederick G. Traver asked the court to dismiss the indictment found against Leon Johnson, colored. Johnson was charged with burglary, second degree, and since the finding of the indictment Mr. Traver explained that through further investigation he learned that Johnson was not the man. It was a case of mistaken identity. The man who actually did commit the crime had been apprehended and was now in an institution serving time. He therefore asked that the indictment be dismissed and the defendant discharged. Ordered.

The extra panel of jurors summoned to sit on criminal trial work were examined and several presenting legal excuses were excused by the court.

Court went into recess until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

Saugerties Gets Both Sides Of Highway Controversy

Church Leader a Liquor Smuggler

Machias Woman One of a Dozen Who Plead Guilty and Go to Jail for Participating in Maine Rum Running Plot.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Machias, Maine, Nov. 11.—"I'll never do it again. I'll never sell another drop of liquor as long as I live."

With head bowed and tears streaming down her face, Mrs. Laura Patten, temperance worker and prominent in social circles, declared today as she began her sentence of two months in a local jail for selling liquor.

"The disgrace is terrible. What will my children think? What will become of them while I am away? What must my friends think of me? I never realized it would come to this. It seemed so easy and the risk so slight, but I learned my lesson. I'm through with that business forever."

Mrs. Patten, characterized by District Attorney F. W. Dyer of Portland, "as the more masterful of the two" was sentenced to two months and her husband, Lorenzo, to six months in the local jail.

Mrs. Patten pleaded guilty, with her husband and a dozen other men, to charges connecting them with a liquor smuggling conspiracy for which 74 indictments have been issued. Federal officials say the rum scandal will shake Maine society. Mrs. Patten has two children.

Captain William H. Hicks, master of two Eastport schooners, used, according to officials, in smuggling liquors to the Maine coast from St. Pierre, Miquelon, pleaded not guilty to a conspiracy charge and was held in $5,000 bonds. Federal investigators accuse him as being the directing head of the alleged conspiracy.

Thirteen of the other men who pleaded guilty received sentences ranging from one to six months. All were charged with illegal sale of liquor.

John Mastertall, a former game warden, and George Hansen, a justice of the peace, are among the others arrested. Hansen, son of the Machiasport postmaster, received a four months' sentence.

The secret indictments as yet unserved are said to name many prominent in business and official circles. The fifteen sentenced have begun serving their terms in the local jail. The round up of those already arrested furnished many thrills and threw nearly a dozen towns into intense excitement. Federal men raced about the countryside in automobiles, taking men from their beds, others from a dance at a grange hall.

"Fines evidently mean nothing to some people," said Judge Peters, in sentencing George Hansen and Frank Crocker to four months each. "They are fast forgetting we have a United States government and that its laws must be obeyed. Crocker thanked the judge for his sentence, but Hansen collapsed in his chair."

The arraignment of Mrs. Patten stirred several spectators to tears. She, herself, was weeping. She is above forty years of age and her daughter is 17, and her son 15.

To federal officers Harold Kilston, George Purlington and Marshal Woodman goes credit for the roundup. According to the latter liquor has long been sold openly on Maine highways in stores and private homes. The Pattons, he said, used their big touring car to visit Canada and brought back contraband.

At the hospital this morning it was stated that she was better, and that her condition was not serious.

Chamber of Commerce Invites County Officials to Tell Why Palenville Road Construction Payments Stopped—Commissioner Brandt's Letter to Cement Contractor Read—Martin Cantine's Suggestion to Get Disinterested Engineer Adopted.

Sixty members of the Saugerties Chamber of Commerce met Monday night to discuss the situation created by the refusal of Ulster county authorities to pay further drafts of the state highway department to the John L. Hayes Construction Company of Yonkers for construction work on the Saugerties-Palenville state road on the ground that the road is not being constructed according to the plans and specifications approved by the Ulster county board of supervisors before the county made $115,000 of county funds available for that purpose.

County Attorney John W. Eckert, on whose advice County Treasurer Van Eitten refused to pay out more of the county's money to the contracting firm, was present by invitation of the Chamber of Commerce and explained the position taken by the county authorities. County Superintendent of Highways James F. Loughran also spoke of the investigation he had made.

Department Explains By Letter.

The state highway department did not send any representative to the meeting, but a letter from State Highway Commissioner Arthur W. Brandt to Luther G. McConnell of Saugerties, who was selling cement for the highway contractor, ridiculed the statements made by County Attorney Eckert in his recent letter to Postmaster John D. Frater, which was published in The Freeman.

Contractor's Representative States Position.

On behalf of the contractor, who was announced to have thrown up his contract, it was stated by a Mr. Ronan, who has had charge of the work, that specifications were provided as a means of protection, and anybody knew it was impossible to live up to them strictly. He denied the charges made by Mr. Eckert and Mr. Loughran that vegetable matter including trees, roots and sticks, was being used for the earth fill on the road, but an offer to point out such violations of the contract was excluded to him by Mr. Loughran and also by Chris Minikin, who rushed along the roadway now under construction.

Impartial Engineer to Investigate.

The meeting ended with adoption of a suggestion by Martin Cantine that an engineer from outside the state of New York, who was not susceptible to influence or prejudice, be procured to make an examination of the section of highway already constructed, and Mr. Cantine, who was appointed a committee to procure such an engineer, promised there would be no expense to the state, county, town, village or Chamber of Commerce for the services of such engineer.

State Tries to Compel Payment.

Meanwhile, the state highway department has taken mandamus proceedings to compel County Treasurer Van Eitten to pay the drafts issued by that department, and that matter now pending before Supreme Justice Nichols, before whom it was argued at Albany last Saturday. In such proceedings, the position of the state highway department is that the county at present has no alternative except to pay the money, and if there are no objections to the highway construction, they can be made after the road is completed and before it is accepted by the state. In opposition to this position, the county contends that objections after the work is finished would be fruitless, and the best remedy for improper construction is to prevent it by refusing to pay for it.

County Put Up $115,000.

W. Hoyt Overbaugh, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided, and the privileges of the floor were extended to County Attorney Eckert as soon as the meeting was called to order.

Mr. Eckert said he was glad to be invited to state the county's position. The county's highway system was not complete, but certain circumstances had arisen by which it was deemed best to delay present construction temporarily in order to protect the county's interests. He reviewed briefly the changes of methods by which highways were constructed and paid for, and adopted comprehensive plans finally adopted by the Hewitt committee. The Saugerties-Palenville road had been de-layed partially when it was discovered that Ulster county was entitled to the Boarsville-Willow road, which had been mapped as far back as 1904, but unless that highway had been constructed at the time it was, the county would have been in a position to build the Saugerties-Palenville road.

Under the plan in operation in Ulster county, the county would pay 35 per cent of the cost of construction and the Saugerties-Palenville road sections within Ulster county, and the board of supervisors, after approving the plans and specifications for the road, had made $115,000 available, which was payable to the contractor on the draft of the state highway department. When engineers had called his attention to what seemed violations of the contract, he had advised the county treasurer to stop paying that money. The town of Saugerties wanted the road two feet wider than the original plans called for, and had put up $26,600 as such additional cost. So both the county and town had a direct financial interest in having the road built properly.

Corrects Statement Regarding Bidders.

At the outset, said Mr. Eckert, he desired to correct a statement contained in his letter published in The Freeman, that Winston & Company had submitted a bid for the road. That company had not been among the bidders.

No Bid on Rock.

Another Ulster county concern, however, the S. B. Van Wageningen, Company, Inc., had submitted a bid. That bid was submitted on the plans and specifications as approved by the Ulster county board of supervisors. Examination of the bid of the successful bidder, the Hayes Company, showed that that for rock excavation that company had bid zero.

The engineers' estimates prepared by the highway department included an estimate of 8,500 cubic yards of rock excavation at $3 a cubic yard. After the contract was awarded to the Hayes Company, the attention of County Engineer Loughran was called to the fact that no rock excavation was being made, but that the contour and grade lines had been changed and an earth fill substituted for excavation of rock. Mr. Loughran took up that matter with the state highway department, which admitted in letters that the grade had been changed.

Earth Fill Not Compacted.

The specifications provided that every six inches of earth fill should be compacted, but the attention of County Engineer Loughran was called to the fact that the contractor was putting in two or three feet of earth fill before doing any compacting. The specifications provided the earth fill should be free of vegetable matter, but as a matter of fact roots, parts of trees, sticks and other vegetable matter was being dumped in with the earth.

In a 1,200 foot section which had been measured the engineers found a difference in favor of the contractor, under the changed plans, of $1,500, and if that proportion was carried out, it would make a difference of $42,000 to the contractor. That is, if the contractor lived up to the plans and specifications which the board of supervisors had approved as a preliminary to appropriating $115,000, the county would get the benefit of a properly constructed road which would be lost to the county otherwise.

Reason for Stopping Payment.

When these conditions were brought to his attention, said Mr. Eckert, he decided that the better policy for the county to follow would be to prevent improper construction instead of waiting until afterward and then complaining. There was a sound basis for that position. An old saying was that there was no use in locking the barn door after the horse was stolen. Ulster county's experience in complaining afterward had not been satisfactory. The work could not be undone afterward. The law provided that the county might file objections afterward, but by that time the mischief would have been done and the money spent except 15 per cent. Experience showed that nobody ever got back anything from the sureties. If the work proceeded as it had been going, the county could not do anything except object afterward, but meanwhile the people of the entire county and of the town of Saugerties, whose money had been used, would be the only sufferers. And not only would they be the sufferers now but in future years. All the county wanted to do was to compel the contractor to live up to the plans and specifications which had been the basis of an appropriation of $115,000 by the county and $26,600 by the town of Saugerties.

Attitude of the State.

On last Friday morning, said Mr. Eckert, the county treasurer had been served with a notice of motion for a writ of mandamus, such order being returnable at Albany on Saturday morning, when he had appeared before Judge Nichols in opposition to the motion.

The argument of the attorney general, said Mr. Eckert, had been to the effect that this road was being built to the satisfaction of the state highway department, which did not consider it any of the county's business how it was built, the only province of the county being to supply

Paris Fashion Notes of Interest to Women

Imitation jewels are extensively featured as an autumn trimming by Patou in spite of what he calls his natural antipathy to cheap imitation. Buckles with enamel motifs in broken design and amber and coralline necklaces are the outstanding decorative notes.

Large silver and gold brocade shawls, made by Blanchet, are also noteworthy items in the Jean Patou collection. The texture of these shawls is unusually soft, and because of their length, three meters, they may be developed into frocks.

Inlaid wooden buckles, made of different woods and frequently hand-painted, are a notable feature of the Yth salons. Buttons are made to match these inlaid designs or paintings and the identical design and coloring are then repeated in the embroidery of the dress.

An intriguing teagown from Chanel, which is attracting unusual attention, is developed in green and silver metallic brocade. This interesting model has little straight trousers showing beneath the skirt and a long straight cape, which reaches nearly to the skirt hem, at the back. Chinchilla rat edges the skirt and cape.

Jeanne Lanvin is easily the most enthusiastic sponsor of button trimmings among the entire Paris couture. They decorate the corsages, waistlines and side seams of her frocks, and in addition, she extends the idea to her autumn millinery, developing borders and varicolored motifs out of the tiniest buttons. Many of the Rue de la Paix milliners are following this lead.

From Paris comes word that the bob is getting shorter and shorter—so short, in fact, that the fashionable coiffure of midday is hardly distinguishable from that of monsieur. Despite occasional inconveniences caused by the bob, principally at formal affairs, most authorities agree that the style is too comfortable to lose its vogue. The latest bob variation is the close cropped effect.

But the new brides will have a chance to revive an old custom and at the same time will be following a late mode. The lace-edged handkerchiefs are back and the laceworkers are being given a new chance for their ingenuity and fine work.

There is a new type of work shown on the edges of these fine handkerchiefs. Fine net is sewed around the handkerchief, then the finest embroidery is done on the linen and net. Some of the petals of the flowers look as if they were appliqued. These handkerchiefs are done in France and the work is let out to the different families who have each their own individual designs as they do in making fine laces.

Many handkerchiefs come from Spain. These have the touches of Madeira work on them, but in very fine patterns, frequently done in color.

Children's handkerchiefs in finer grades are in soft colors with small animals woven in or embroidered on them. Figured lines are also used in their handkerchiefs as well as for those of the grown-ups. In fact, these figured lines, usually a white figure on a colored ground, are quite loud and dashing, perfect for sports wear. —Kansas City Star.

KINGSTON, N. Y., NOV. 11, 1924.

Clarence Darrow's assertion that none of the 19 condemned murderers now in Sing Sing would be there if he had had a competent lawyer is a rather startling reminder not only that our preeminence in crime is due to lack of adequate punishment but that the lack of adequate punishment is largely due to the Clarence Darrow.

In its discussion of the Loeb and Leopold murder case—reprinted in the Living Age—the London Saturday Review lists the old kinds of murder and the new kind as follows: "Commercial murder, which looks not beyond the immediate and material gain; murder for the preservation of respectability, which is peculiarly shy of publicity; murder out of mere anger, which is no more than a gesture happening to be made with a weapon; and murder for sport."

COPELAND'S AUTOPSY.

United States Senator Royal S. Copeland of our neighboring county of Rockland, by training and profession a physician and surgeon and presumably qualified to perform an autopsy on a dead human, attempted to perform a similar operation on the Democratic party in Monday's issue of his newspaper, the Nyack Daily News. It is proper that the postmortem should be made by a Democrat; preeminently proper to be undertaken by Senator Copeland who by virtue of his position as a United States Senator should share equally with Governor Smith the actual if not the titular leadership of what remains of the Democratic party in New York state.

"The roots of disaster lie in our geographical differences," says Senator Copeland. "There are two, perhaps three, National Democratic parties—the East, the South and the West. What is there in common between the Democrats of Georgia and the Democrats of New York? What common cause can unite Montana and Minnesota?"

Yet Montana and Minnesota Republicans united on Calvin Coolidge and both states gave him a majority in the election. Republicans had something in common there and also with New York state, which gave Coolidge an overwhelming majority. Georgia, on the contrary, found common cause with the other states of the "Solid South," partly from force of habit, partly from recollection of the savory flavor of the pork barrel which on several occasions has tickled the palates of southern states and sent the rest of the country scurrying to the Republican party for protection against continued ravages of hungry southern statesmen.

"What confidential political adviser sent our candidate for the Presidency to West Virginia three times during the previous days of the campaign?" asks Senator Copeland. "Certainly the eight electoral votes of that little state have no charm or peculiar value which could make it more important to win than to get New York's forty-five."

But stay! Speak softly! If Candidate Davis refused to be bottled up in the west and insisted on talking in eastern states, where could he do less harm, where drive away fewer votes among the debatable states, than in West Virginia? Was it not the state where he was born? The state to which he dragged the notification committee after he was nominated instead of meeting? Assuming that the larger eastern states were debatable, why should he not have been sent to West Virginia with his eight votes, rather than to Massachusetts with its eighteen, or New Jersey with its fourteen, or New York with its forty-five? Was there any debatable state in the east where he could do less damage? Other eastern states were assuredly Republican. If Mr. Davis must talk, West Virginia was a wise selection.

After an examination of the injuries to Democracy's vital organs, Senator Copeland enumerates only a few, any one of which would have proved fatal. The autopsy shows that all the injuries were inflicted by the same kind of shot, and all the shot were fired from the same Democratic blunderbuss. "Do these failures indicate stupidity, carelessness or indifference?" he asks. And careful reflection must compel the thoughtful Democrat to answer "All." And he might add to them, ignorance, selfishness, LaFolletteism and Bryanism.

As long as Democracy follows in the steps of Republicanism, it is sure to be recognized at times. But when Democracy does otherwise and begins to chase rainbows or rely on its own judgment, it joins LaFolletteism and Bryanism and becomes one of a trio of "Babes in the Woods."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

INDIAN HERBS.

I met a chap past sixty the other day, and he told me of a wonderful remedy he had secured from an Indian, many years ago.

The Indian had explained to him that most of the trouble in the body came from the body itself. That the tissues poisoned themselves, and this medicine, made of native herbs, neutralized and then removed the poison from the system.

And so this chap on every occasion that he felt a little bit below par, would stop eating for two days, and take this Indian medicine, which always flushed the intestine.

Now what about this in the light of our present medical knowledge? Do your tissues poison themselves or do poisons come from outside in the form of infective little microbes, or germs?

Well as a matter of fact some ailments come from outside such as Typhoid, Scarlet Fever, and so forth, but on the other hand a great many come from within your own body.

All this trouble that arises from bad teeth, bad tonsils, sluggish liver, and intestine, is certainly due to poisons manufactured within your own body.

And the point that most investigators believe now, is that it is not so much the microbes or little germs that cause the trouble, as it is the products they manufacture.

To remove the bad tooth, to remove or clean out the tonsil or gall bladder all right, but to go a step further and remove the products that remain in the body even after these offending organs have been removed or cleaned up.

These products remain in the glands and other tissues, and hence in the blood itself, sometimes for months.

The Indian's idea of abstaining from food, and then using herbs to rid the body of these poisonous products, is really a great part of the treatment now given by our regular physicians.

We are learning a great deal, but much of the old treatment has been proven to be sound.

ment, Mrs. Strong alone had children in their teens. Certain frivolous citizens intimated that Mrs. Strong had so long been saying that Turtle Lake was a garden spot in a tone of voice that defied gainsaying, that she could not openly go away.

During the June of Althea Gay's arrival at Turtle Lake, Mrs. Strong gave a garden party in her honor. When Althea was about to take her leave, Mrs. Strong asked: "Have you seen my onions?" Althea said "No." "You can't go home without seeing my onions," was the reply. "Oh, your husband will understand—you must see my onions. No, tomorrow is uncertain; you can't miss my onions." And as Althea followed her vociferous hostess, her ears seemed to ring with "Onions!
Onions! Onions!"

The next day at the local grocers she caught the accents of an easily recognized voice. "You won't forget to send my order? You'll remember that I want my order before lunch? I must have my order without fail—you'll see to it yourself, won't you?" Then Mrs. Strong turned away and Althea heard one clerk tell another, "Oh, she always goes on like that."

One rainy morning that summer Althea was at the Strong house when Mrs. Strong was getting her family off to their several destinations. Her husband was on his way to a town meeting, and Althea knew that if the village missed having a community incinerator that year it would not be Mrs. Strong's fault. The children were warned ten times to put on their rubbers and take their umbrellas. There was simply no chance for independent incompetency on their part.

Three years later Mrs. Strong's joy and pride, her only son, was sent away to school. Of all the human beings upon whom she had expended her force of character, this was the one whom she had most closely followed up, whom she had most talked to and at and over. Althea Gay was present when he went off amid a perfect broadside of adjuration. And several months later Althea Gay was calling on Mrs. Strong when the tragic blow to her pride fell. Her son had been dropped. He had no vices, no evil ways—if so, his masters wrote, there would have been more hope for him;
he was simply weak, he had no force, no character, there was no place for him in the school. His mother's habit of overemphasis had pounded all the spring from his makeup and left him labby.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It can lead to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation undiminished this man's health. Kellogg's Bran restored it—as it has done for thousands. This is what he says:

"Gentlemen: After eating Kellogg's Bran twice a day for one month I find it not only an 'Easy Way to Avoid Constipation,' but an easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation . . . for more than twenty years . . . after adopting the milk and bran diet I find my stomach greatly improved, and find it a specific for constipation. . . . I deem it only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others."

(The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

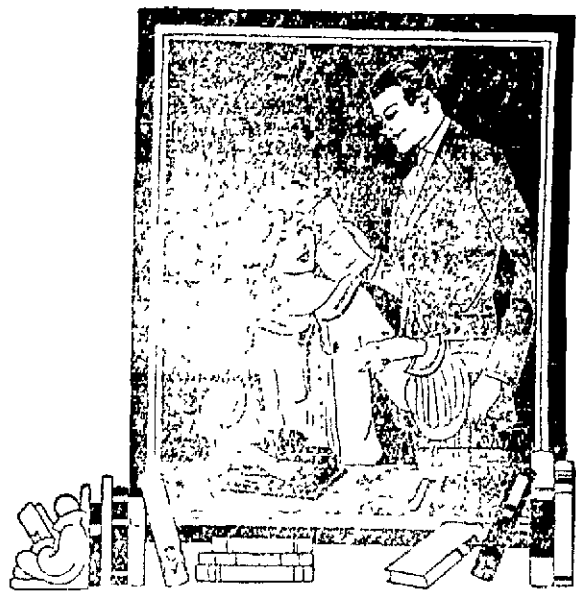

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't experiment. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective.

If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal.

The flavor is delicious—nut-like—cooked and krumbled. Enjoy it with milk or cream, sprinkled on other cereals, cooked with hot cereals, or in the delightful recipes on every package. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by grocers everywhere.

MR. NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN, COI. L. S. AMERY, SIR WILFRID JOYNSON-HICKS (Chancellor), WINSTON CHURCHILL, SIR SAMUEL HOARE & VISCOUNT CAVE

British political experts declare, unless there is some untoward incident to upset it, the new Ministry of Stanley Baldwin has such a majority in Commons that it will last for five years. Already they are seeking untoward incidents in the appointment of Winston Spencer Churchill, the maverick of English politics for twenty years, as Chancellor of the Exchequer. Churchill is an unbending foe of socialism, a free trader, and was not even in the Tory party until this election. Among other Ministers appointed by Mr. Baldwin are: Sir William Joynson-Hicks to be Home Secretary, Neville Chamberlain to be Minister of Health, Colonel L. C. M. S. Amery to be Secretary for the Colonies, Sir Samuel Hoare to be Air Minister, and Viscount Cave to be Lord Chancellor.

Corn Crop Loss $728,000,000

Smallest Crop Since 1913—Only 63 Per Cent of Marketable Quality—Short Crop Means Better Price for Grower.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Nov. 10.—The American corn crop this year is 668,749,000 bushels short of the 1923 crop and is the smallest the country has experienced since 1913, the department of agriculture announced this afternoon.

Translated into dollars and cents at the market price on October 15, the date on which the report was based, this represents a loss to the American farmer this year of $728,000,000.

Other crop estimates follow: White potatoes, production forecast 454,119,000 bushels, compared with 412,322,000 bushels last year. Yield per acre 121.0.

Farm price, October 15, 68.8; 81.4 cents on October 15, 1924. Quality 89.2 per cent of normal; 87.9 last year.

Sweet potatoes: Production forecast 75,620,000 bushels; compared with 97,177,000 bushels last year. Yield per acre 76.4. Farm price, October 15, 148.5; 114.8 cents on October 15, 1924. Quality 80.4 per cent of normal; 87.1 last year.

Tobacco: production forecast, 1,213,975,000 pounds, compared with 1,331,066,000 pounds last year. Yield per acre, 713 pounds. Quality 76.5 per cent of normal, compared with 81.4 last year.

The short crop prevails this year notwithstanding a slight increase in acreage. Not only is the volume cut down, but there has also been a big drop in the quality of the crop, the department announced. Last year the quality was estimated at 79.4, but for 1924, the estimate is only 63.2.

"The corn crop," said the department, "is a small margin the smallest since 1913, and substantially lower than the crops of last four years, which have averaged over 3,000,000,000 bushels."

"Only 63.2 per cent of the crop is of merchantable quality. This is the lowest per cent of merchantability in thirty years, with the exception of the crop of 1917."

While the big drop in production indicates a huge loss from the farmers' standpoint, actually the loss is only a paper one, and actually the corn grower is as well off this year. If not better off than he was on last year's crop, because of the better price commanded this year, on account of the short crop.

Over most of the corn belt, weather, said the department, during October was very favorable for maturing and drying the crop. For the corn belt, as a whole, the estimates of production are about the same as the forecast of a month ago, but as a result of favorable weather, the quality is much better than seemed probable then.

MILLINERY COURSE
AT STONE RIDGE.

Under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Robert Service and Mrs. Hubert Smith, the Stone Ridge Home Bureau finished its millinery course last Friday. Twenty women have made felt hats suitable for fall and winter wear. They blocked their own crowns, made their own brims and their own trimming, and the hats scored at the meeting on Friday were such as you buy in any store from $5 up. The meeting decided that the average buying cost of these 20 hats in any good store would be $6. The hats have cost none of the members more than $1.10. They have been made out of wool felt, some cost less, average cost $1, making a saving of $5 on each hat, a total saving in money for 20 hats being $100.

In addition to saving this money the women have gained the practical knowledge of how to make a hat. The knowledge gained as to the making of hats and the money saved was not the main object, however. The main purpose of the course being to give the women a real appreciation of what constitutes a good hat, what shaped hat is most becoming to her, what colors she can wear best, and how to consider a hat not only as a hat but in relation to the entire costume, so she may be able not only to make a good hat, but to choose a good hat when buying.

At the end of the meeting the members of the class gave a rising vote of thanks to their leaders, Mrs. Service and Mrs. Smith.

Mrs. M. C. Van Winkle is now planning to give the millinery work to the girls in her club. Next spring the members of the Stone Ridge Home Bureau are planning to take up the spring millinery work. This is an advanced course and only those taking the fall work will be admitted to the class. If you have not taken up the fall work, get someone who is a member of the class to show you, so that you may take up the spring work if you wish to.

Textor Talks of India and Ghandi

Second Monday Club Lecture a Study of Recent Happenings in India and the Campaign for Passive Resistance.

The second of the Monday Club lectures was given by Dr. Textor of the Vassar College faculty in the chapel of the First Reformed Church on Monday afternoon. The subject was "Ghandi and the Nationalist Movement." Before beginning her lecture Dr. Textor announced that the subject of next Monday's lecture would be "The Westernization of Japan."

After a very brief resume of the conditions that led up to a state of mind and affairs in India, including India's splendid service for England in the World War, which was ripe for such a leader as Ghandi, Dr. Textor gave a concise sketch of that leader's life. He was born in one of the smaller provinces of North India in 1869. His parents were of the higher caste, the father being a prime minister and the mother a beautiful character who brought her son up carefully in the Hindu faith. From his childhood, Ghandi found it difficult to understand why some people were untouchable, at the same time that others had the power, if they were touched, to remove the pollution caused by the first mentioned persons. To him all this was an awful exorcism on the Hindu faith.

After being educated in India and England he returned, expecting to practice law at home, but he was sent to South Africa, where instead of being treated as a man of culture he was treated as a negro, abused and insulted as were his brother Indians. So for twenty years he gave up a very lucrative law practice and lived and worked among his own people, doing all possible for them and always living the theory of non-violence; passive resistance. He finally returned to England but did not arrange that country for its treatment of its Indian subjects until 1915. He was trying to hold to truth, the power of love that would not admit of violence, and considered that what might be truth to one man could seem error to another.

Dr. Textor told of the massacre in the Punjab in 1919 and also of the feeling on the part of both Mohammedans and Hindus that England had pledged the Indians that their holy places of religion should be guarded. Finally they considered that England had broken that pledge, though the lecturer said she was not sure that the English meant what the Indians thought they meant in the matter. In any event, for the first time in the history of British Rule in India, Mohammedans and Hindus were united by a common grievance against England.

While Ghandi believes that all religions have their rightful places, in this instance he advises that the Hindus must stand by the Mohammedans in insisting upon England's restoring their holy places to the caliph, and England was obliged to do so.

Out of this situation grew the "Gandhi," or spirit of non-cooperation with England, and the insistence upon "Gandhi," or home rule. So great was the movement toward creating their own supplies, as well as having their own education—the Indians having refused to make use of the English schools or universities—that even the untouchables were drawn into it and urged to do their own spinning, etc. In any event, their cooperation was asked, which may prove to be the entering wedge against the caste system.

Ghandi is a believer in the worship of the sacred cow as the symbol of all animal life and its sacredness and it is there that the east and west come to the parting of the ways: The east requires the symbol while the west needs no symbol.

Although England had practically promised India much greater liberty and power and approach to home rule after the war, the promises did not materialize and in spite of Ghandi's teaching there was rioting. Ghandi counted this as his fault for not having sufficiently instructed the people and fortified their souls, so he fasted and prayed for five days as his own penance. That brought him to her senses, and for the time being there was a cessation of the rioting. Then there were further difficulties and England wearying of Ghandi's mistakes as to the minds of his people, as shown in a special riot, sent him to prison for six years. He appealed that no finger should be raised in violence during that time. Last spring Ghandi was released, much short of the six years, and though very much of an invalid, he then undertook a five weeks' fast to save the souls of his people. In the meantime India has made some substantial gains.

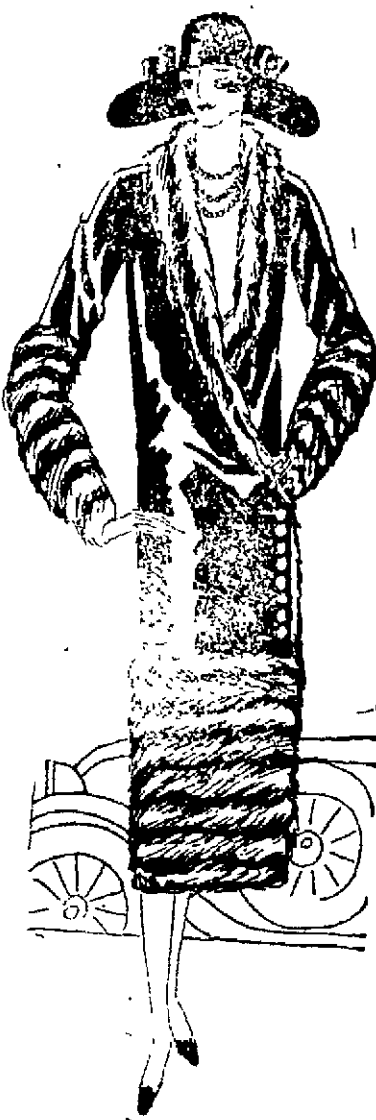

Dr. Textor said there was this for us to learn, that while western civilization calls for material things and complexity of living it does not demand the deeper things of life and we may yet have to go to India as a great teacher.

FASHION FOCUSES ON FURS.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

The present winter threatens to go down in history as the fur season. Never could there have been more furs worn. Furs trim furs. For a while a fur coat was sufficient unto itself, but now a fur coat, to be really elegant, must be collar and bordered. Women are just insatiable in their desire for fur—a costly whim, but one which is lovely to behold, since furs have learned the trick of making even the cheaper pelts attractive.

The model sketched is remarkable for the restraint exercised at the collar—where one expects a lavish usage—and the exaggeration of the cuff, which falls just a little short of being an entire sleeve. Fitch is chosen, and fitch may be its own tawny color, or dyed any of the brown shades which now intrigue us.

One of the new ways of introducing fur unexpectedly is to add it to the collar of a cloth or satin frock. We are, of course, accustomed to finding it at the hem of the skirt or tunic, but on some smart dresses seen recently, it is omitted from these accustomed haunts and found trimming the collar.

The black satin coat bordered with red fox or natural lynx is one of the most stunning modes of the moment. Warmth was assured by lining a heavy artificial satin coat with natural kaasha, and heavily bordering it with black caracul. Long furs are perhaps a bit the smartest, for trimming, but there is a good deal of caracul used, as well as the leopard—baby and adult.

STATE FEDERATION OF WOMEN'S CLUBS MEETS

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Nov. 11.—

With the thirtieth annual convention of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs swinging into its first session today, a contest has developed which promises brisk action before officers are elected.

Mrs. Charles M. Dickinson is slated for the presidency when the votes are cast Friday. But there will be a battle for the first vice-presidency between Mrs. Albert Candell Eage, president of the Eclectic Club and Madame Katherine Von Klenner, who organized the National Opera Club. Both are New York women. A poll of incoming delegates indicated that Mrs. Eage might be a slight favorite.

There are no contests for the other offices, a tentative draft of which showed today: for second vice president, Mrs. Frank H. Messenger, of Buffalo; third vice-president, Mrs. Russell Headley Albany; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Harry Kent, Blaghamton; treasurer, Mrs. Richard M. Chapman, Brooklyn; recording secretary, Mrs. Josephine Mason.

Mrs. John H. Booth of Plattsburg, president of the Federation, will be in charge of the sessions. She presided last night at a memorial dinner in honor of the late Mrs. William Tod Helmut. Three former presidents spoke: Miss Mary Garrett Hay and Mrs. Frank J. Schuler, both of New York and Mrs. Walter S. Conly, of Port Chester.

Saugerties Gets Both Sides

money and pay it out on the highway department's order.

"It looks funny," said Mr. Eckert. "I am not an engineer," said Mr. Eckert. "I have no pretensions in that direction; whatever engineering information I have was given to me by Mr. Loughran, our county engineer, and F. H. Trow, chief engineer of Winston & Company, who have considerable experience in construction work. I do say as a human being, that where 8,500 cubic yards of rock excavation are estimated by the highway department engineers, and the successful bidder bids zero on that item, and later the plans are changed so as to provide for an earth fill as a base for concrete—well, it looks funny to me. It looked so funny that I could not take any other course."

"Why should we wait and complain afterward? We had that experience with the Saugerties-Catskill road and with the Kingston-West Hurley road; we objected afterward, but our objections didn't amount to as much as a puff of smoke with the highway department, and the road wasn't changed and we didn't get any money back."

"All that we ask is that the contractor be compelled to show to the public in building this road. Is there anybody in the town of Saugerties or in the county of Ulster who can take umbrage at that? We only ask for an honest performance of the contract for a road that will last instead of one which will go to pieces. We believe that the contract at the beginning was irregular and illegal and the department had no right to change the plans or specifications after it had obtained our money for something else. This change of plan is vicious, but it is not new. It is unfair to the competing bidders and to the people who pay the bill. When a contract is let according to a definite plan and specifications, it should not be changed for the benefit of the contractor and against the benefit of the people who pay the bill. The time to act is now."

Danger in Earth Fill.

There was danger from improper earth fill. In one instance, said Mr. Eckert, the contractor had filled in a road a tree stump three feet in diameter and later pulled up the stump, but the earth could not then be compacted the same as for the surrounding land, with the result that there would be first a crack, as the earth settled, then a hole, and in the concrete road, which ought to last for many years, would be a crack in that place. Concrete roads are expected to last not only through this generation but through succeeding generations, and since they cost so much to build, they should be built in the best possible way.

Stick to One Subject.

In response to Mr. Eckert's offer to answer questions, Supervisor Shultz asked why there had been delay in approving plans for the Saugerties-Catskill road. Mr. Eckert said he objected to being asked questions that had been asked under discussion. Both his father and mother had come from Saugerties and there was no town in that name for which he had higher personal feeling; he had accepted an invitation to talk on the Saugerties road work and was not present to get in any general or political argument, but he would try to be fair.

Wrote More Than Once.

"When you found out on October 10th why did you wait until November 1st to write the letter you did?" asked Supervisor Shultz. Mr. Eckert said he had first written to Colonel Greene on October 8, but the facts were brought to his attention. Before that, Mr. Loughran had written. On October 14, he received a reply from Colonel Greene stating facts which did not conform to the facts as he had found them, and he had thereupon given notice to the county treasurer to stop payment, and had written to Mr. Frater when the latter had telephoned him to ask why the drafts of the highway department were not being paid.

"Isn't it true Mr. Winston was opposed to this road?" asked Supervisor Shultz.

"No," said Mr. Eckert. "On the contrary, he offered to give the land needed to straighten out the road and to pay the difference between the contractor's estimate and the cost to the highway department."

"Petty Politics," said Department.

Supervisor Shultz said the contractor came to him last Saturday morning and said he had thrown up the contract, but gave no details. So he called up the highway department and was told that it was the fault of nothing but petty politics on the part of Ulster county officials.

"Father of Road" Speaks.

Postmaster Frater said no man was more interested in the Saugerties road than he was, that he had been the "father of the road," and that it was completed, and no man had been more indignant than he when he found that work was being stopped. So he had called up Mr. Eckert, who explained the matter by telephone and then wrote the letter which had been published.

Cement Man Makes Statement.

Luther G. McConnell, who said he did the cement for the road to Mr. Roman, said that last week Mr. Roman told him the money was being held up. Having read Mr. Eckert's letter in The Freeman and being notified the misstatement by the Winston Company had been corrected, he had written to the highway department to get all the facts.

Slower Brand: had replied as follows:

Nov. 10, 1924.

Mr. Luther G. McConnell,

Catskill, New York.

My Dear Mr. McConnell:

I have your letter of November 8, with reference to conditions on the Saugerties-Paleville county highway, and, particularly, with reference to the truth of the statements made by Mr. Eckert in a letter that he wrote to John D. Frater of Saugerties under date of November 1.

This letter is a remarkable document and only goes to show how far some people will blindly burst into print when they think they have a chance to "get something" on some official with whom their relations have not been too cordial.

I am very thankful that Mr. Loughran, county superintendent of highways of Ulster county, who is supposed to be and I believe claims to be a highway engineer, is not employed by the State Highway Bureau, as such estimating and reading of plans and specifications as he has evidently done in this particular case, would keep us in hot water all the time.

The gist of Mr. Eckert's letter is that Mr. Loughran and Mr. Trow investigated one typical area of 1,200 ft. and that the extra cost to the state and county by reason of the change of grade, which according to Mr. Loughran resulted in relieving the contractor from making the rock excavation for which the state and county paid him nothing under his contract and allowed him to substitute an earth fill, for which he received a price of $1.65 per cu. yd., would be in the neighborhood of $1,500.00. Mr. Loughran very generously computed that the extra cost, therefore, to the state and county on the 7 1/2 miles of such change in Ulster county would be about $45,000.00, or nearly $16,000.00 for the county share, as Ulster county pays 35 per cent of the cost.

I want to show you that Mr. Loughran is wrong in his prices from the very start. This road is made up of three contracts, which were completed for advertising and award. The first No. 1668 starts at or near Paleville and runs northerly for 3.02 miles to the northern end of No. 1668 and runs a distance of 2.93 miles to the county line of Greene county; the third No. 1671 is 1.60 miles long and is situated entirely in Greene county. The rock, as an item for which the county claims that the contractor bid a price of $6.00 per cu. yd., is located only on the two northern sections of the contract, which embrace Roads Nos. 1676 and 1671. No changes of grade have been contemplated or made on either of these two northern sections. There is no item either for rock or earth on No. 1668, the southern section. The only item is for unclassified excavation at $1.65 per cu. yd., which takes in any excavation that may be made, rock earth or other kinds. Therefore, any change of grade which may relieve the contractor from excavating what may be actually rock and substituting therefor earth excavation is done at no additional cost to the state, inasmuch as the price for both is exactly the same.

Now let us look at the actual changes in grade that have been made. According to Division Engineer Bixby, on Road No. 1668, the southern section, the grade was raised an average of eight inches for a distance of 800 ft., an average of three inches for 2,000 ft., and an average of 18 inches for 900 ft. This gives an average total change of 7 1/2 inches for a distance of 3,700 ft. Some increased excavation will be necessary to properly build the shoulders, as a result of this change. I am also informed by Division Engineer Bixby that the material for these shoulders is to be taken from material that the division office had figured on wasting and that there will not be one penny of increased cost to the state as a result of raising the grades.

One would think, and doubtless, many people of Ulster county have the impression, from Mr. Eckert's letter, which was published in The Kingston Daily Freeman of November 3, that this department had arbitrarily gone ahead and authorized changes which would increase the cost of the road $45,000.00. This department very seriously considers any changes which involve an increase in expenditure of any amount, even $2,000.00, and we satisfy ourselves that the change is worth the money and to the best interests of the state before we permit it. A highway commissioner who would permit a change involving an increase of $45,000.00, or any large amount, without a thorough consultation with the officials of other municipalities which may be interested, should be investigated and his removal ordered.

Mr. Eckert goes on to say that the fill was not properly compacted and that vegetable matter was included in them. I deny these statements. All fills on this job, whether or not they were rolled in layers of six inches, have been compacted to the satisfaction of the engineer on the job and to the satisfaction of this department and, as far as I have been able to determine, they were built in accordance with specifications which allowed the engineer in this department certain latitude in determining whether or not the work has been done properly.

His statement that the quality of the concrete was not in accordance with the specifications does not go into details and, therefore, is not worth answering. Nor is Mr. Eckert's nasty insinuation that the contractor might have had knowledge before bidding that certain changes would be made, which would result in benefit to him, worthy of a reply. As a matter of fact the only benefit of any nature which the contractor has received on this job is between Stations 23 and 38 where the grade was raised a distance of three inches, which at the maximum would mean a saving to him of about 140 yards of rock excavation, on which he may have saved as many dollars as he increased cost to the state or county.

It is regrettable that public officials, who under the guise of zeal for the people whom they represent, before making such rash statements as Mr. Eckert has made, do not thoroughly investigate conditions.

Work Suspended Now Anyway.

President Overbaugh asked how long the work would be tied up. Mr. Eckert said he did not believe concrete could be laid longer at this time of the year with any degree of safety, but the success of concrete depended on the soundness of the foundation; if the foundation was not sound, it should not be laid at all.

Personally, he disagreed with Mr. Roman, and he believed that specifications for a state road, like specifications for a house, were intended to be lived up to. It was too bad the county did not have inspectors on the road. What had been done had been done, and that was all there was to it, but the county could try to guard against a continuance of improper construction. The work could progress tomorrow, if the work proceeded according to specifications. He did not believe the people of Ulster county considered that he has shown in his report to Mr. Eckert, could easily have gone over the plans with engineers of this department, could have found exactly what changes had been made and what they meant in increased cost, if any, to the county and state. As an engineer in this particular case, he could have done nothing but subscribe to the raising of the grades at these particular points, as they were raised, to take advantage of the old macadam foundation which could then be used as a foundation for the new concrete road.

Answering the last paragraph of your letter, a ten days' notice of cancellation has now been served on the contractor. If at the end of ten days he has not resumed operations or indicated his willingness to resume operations next spring, the contract will be cancelled and re-advertised at the earliest possible moment. This will mean but very little delay in the ultimate completion of the work, but it will doubtless mean a very much greater expense to Ulster county. This increased cost will probably amount to not less than $25,000, in addition to any damages which the contractor may be able to obtain through the court of claims. I am not anticipating that he will be able to receive any damages and I believe that the increased cost of completing the work will be assessed against him. If the court of claims case goes against us, however, I am informed that Ulster county will be responsible for any increased cost, which may well mount up into the neighborhood of $75,000.00 or $100,000.00.

Yours very truly,

A. W. BRANDT,

Commissioner.

Mr. Eckert Replies.

Mr. Eckert said he had full faith in Mr. Loughran's ability, judgment and truthfulness. Mr. Loughran had written, telegraphed and in other ways tried to get maps and cross-sections from the highway department, without success. Commissioner Brandt was defending his department. This proceeding made not the slightest financial or political difference to him personally, said Mr. Eckert, but he was doing his duty as he saw it. He had advised Mr. Loughran when making the examination to be accompanied by a competent engineer, and Mr. Loughran secured Mr. Trow, who was one of the most competent anywhere.

"This afternoon," said Mr. Eckert, "they found lumps of sod, sticks of wood, roots of trees all being dumped in. There were large sized rocks being dumped in with clay, but when the frost goes out of the ground, the rocks will stay while the clay recedes, and the first thing that happens is a crack in the concrete. That is not good construction. I am giving you the facts as they come to me. There ought to be someone in Ulster county who has some degree of intelligence to know whether roads are being built properly, and I believe Mr. Loughran, who has the confidence of the people, is such a person—an honest, capable official."

When To Hound Him.

County Engineer Loughran said he had tried repeatedly to get from the highway department the maps of cross-sections for the road, but they had not been furnished. When the time came when he had to bow his head in shame on account of any criticism by any appointive official of the highway department at Albany, then he hoped people of Ulster would hound him out of the county. For a long time he did not approve of concrete roads, but with changed method of construction he did approve, but they must be properly constructed and properly supervised, or people might as well dump their money in the Hudson river.

Contractor Representative Speaks.

Supervisor Shultz said that Mr. Roman, representing the contractor, was present, and asked him if it was true that sticks and roots were being used in the fill.

Mr. Roman said such material as they had was used for filling. Sod was not being used for filling. There might be some small sticks in the earth, but they were not being used if they could be avoided. He would stand by the work that had been done in every respect. Specifications are like laws, he said. How many people, even lawyers, know every law? Yet laws are for protection, no specifications ever made can be followed to the letter. They are for protection. He would stand by all the work that had been done.

Will County Save Anything?

R. B. Overbaugh said the only question in his mind was whether the county would save anything by stopping the work. The department says it will cost more. He did not suppose the work could have proceeded more than two weeks more, but that was something.

specifications were scraps of paper, although the attorney general's representative told him on Saturday he did not consider it any of the county's business how the road was built as long as the highway department approved. But the county believed that when it contributed $115,000, and the town contributed $28,600, they should get a good job. Delay meant practically nothing now, because it was time to shut down for winter.

Supervisor Shultz said the highway law provided for objections by a county when the road was completed, the county being given twenty days to file objections if construction was improper.

Mr. Eckert said he had cited two specific instances of objections which had no results, and if there was any way of the county or town getting its money back, he would like to know it.

The Chamber's Position.

John F. Carnright asked whether it was the policy of the highway department to build improper roads, and if so and other imperfections could not be found along any road.

Mr. Eckert said improperly constructed roads had been built, but greater care was needed in building concrete roads because if cracks appeared through faulty foundation, the damage was greater and harder and more expensive to repair.

"Under the facts as I have stated them, I ask if any of you would have taken any other course than I have taken?" he asked.

The Chamber of Commerce, said Mr. Carnright, was not interested in politics or differences between county officials and the highway department, but was interested in the village and town of Saugerties and improvements for them. Every time a committee went to Albany, they found that relations between the highway department and Ulster county officials were unpleasant, and that is the feeling now. He did not know that there was must satisfaction in it for Saugerties.

"We want the contractor to live up to specifications," said Mr. Eckert. "I am sorry the department has no warmer feelings for us."

"Have you any warmer feelings for them?" asked Mr. Carnright. Everybody joined in the laugh that followed.

Mr. Loughran said he would be glad to take the contractor's engineer or any other engineer on the road tomorrow morning, and show them things he would be ashamed of.

Cider Drinking Fatal to Eight

Key in Which it Was Shipped to Elks' National Home Formerly Had Contained Arsenic Liquid for Spraying Trees—More Deaths Expected.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Bedford, Va., Nov. 11.—Eight men have died and from 15 to 20 others are so seriously ill that more deaths are feared as a result of drinking cider at the Elks' National Home, near here. All the dead and those ill are residents of the home.

All the physicians in Bedford were rushed to the home today, and in addition, a call for aid was sent to Lynchburg and several physicians at that city rushed here to try to save the lives of those made ill.

The Dead.
Chester Tucker, Lima, Ohio.
Joseph A. Kinney, Marion, Ind.
Alvin Spaulding, Loveland, Colorado.
Thomas F. Madington, Long Island City, N. Y.
George Slade, Saginaw, Michigan.
C. S. Whitney, Omaha, Neb.
Frank O'Connor, Dallas, Texas.
C. S. Allen, Portland, Ore.

Seriously Ill.
The list of those who are seriously ill, some of whom are expected to die, follows:

J. K. Collins, New York.
Joseph Ross, Colorado Springs, Colo.
Charles Sidentoph, Terre Haute, Ind.
Austin K. Kniffin, Connelville, Pa.
C. W. Baker, Auburn, N. Y.
John F. Talbot, Houston, Texas.
Charles Cavill, Leadville, Colo.
F. D. Martel, Springfield, Mass.
William Clarkson, New Haven, Conn.

J. W. Cole, Hunting, West Va.
W. C. Lloyd, Aberdeen, Washn.
W. C. Hulet, Omaha, Neb.
M. H. Morris, Ithaca, Ohio.
F. W. Murphy, Portsmouth, N. H.
J. R. Braddock, Peekskill, N. Y.

The elder was served at dinner yesterday. A few hours after the meal men began to complain of severe abdominal pains, and these were followed by convulsions. A hurry call was sent for the doctors in Bedford, and despite their work, six men died during the night and this morning, two others dying about noon.

Nurses from the hospitals at Lynchburg and Roanoke also were summoned.
The cider which caused the deaths was procured by authorities from the home of E. M. Richards, a Bedford merchant, who previously had bought it from the farmers of the county. The consignment came in kegs and demijohns.

An investigation by the authorities disclosed that one of the kegs had previously contained an arsenic liquid for spraying trees.

Those made ill through drinking the cider were those who drank from this keg. Other inmates of the home, who used the cider that came in the demijohns, suffered no ill effects.

Authorities of the home immediately began to look for the cause and it was some time before it was ascertained that the cider was responsible. All the remaining cider in the home was rushed to Richmond this morning for analysis.

Doctors from Bedford, Roanoke and Lynchburg were working feverishly at the home this afternoon in an effort to save the lives of those ill.

Inquests will be held tomorrow to fix the blame for the deaths. County authorities took charge of the investigation this afternoon.

Surrounded by friends we are lonely, In the midst of our pleasure we are blue,
A smile on our face still our heart aches,
Aching and longing for you.
It seemed that nothing could part us,
That death with its strength would not do.

There's nothing left now but the heartache,
The yearning and longing for you.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Nov. 11.—All departments of the stock market participated today in another vigorous forward price movement, in which the volume of trading was fully equal to that of any of the recent sensational sessions.

As interest in the railroad stocks appeared to be waning, powerful pool interests took the high priced industrial stocks in hand and swept them forward to new high prices. At the same time the activity of the market broadened to include a larger range of copper, oil, industrial and specialty stocks, some of which have been conspicuously inactive in recent weeks.

With sharp advances of five points each, American Can and General Electric were the leaders in the high priced industrial group, both stocks responding to reports that the directors are contemplating a split up of the common shares by the stock dividend. It is problematical to what extent the trapping of the shorts in these stocks and also in Baldwin and United States Steel was responsible for the violent rise in their prices today, but recent heavy borrowings show that the short interest is very heavy. Other stocks which are said to have benefited by this condition today were American Woolen, American Sugar and Cast Iron Pipe.

Railroad stocks in both the high and low priced groups resumed their forward movement today. Southern Pacific sold up to a new high at 102 3/4 for a gain of 3 points as rumors circulated in the financial districts that the directors would increase the dividend from 6 to 7 per cent. St. Louis San Francisco common led the speculative group with a 2 1/2 point rise to a new high at 46 3/4, but demand was well distributed over a dozen or more stocks with Rock Island, New Haven, Erie, Wabash and the Katy stocks making the best price records. Frisco preferred was in good demand and recorded a new high at 76.

Oil stocks led the market in the early trading but speculative interest turned from them as well as from the copper stocks when the high priced industrial set the market to the report that buyers of crude oil were offering a premium for Tonkawa crude. Higher prices were recorded in Savage Arms, Foundation Company, Industrial Alcohol and other specialty stocks which have been prominent in recent weeks.

The Chicago grain market was closed, but prices at Winnipeg were higher, cotton was strong, on trade and speculative buying; sterling exchange slightly reactionary, railroad and industrial bonds strong; money in good supply, with time rates a little firmer.

Primitive Customs in Cornish Fishing Town

A place where grown men play marbles with the zest of schoolboys and where cats catch live fish among the rock pools when the tide is out. Such a place does exist, and in the quaint old fishing town of St. Ives, in far-away Cornwall, these things may be seen.

In the cool of the evening, along the broad road bordering the sheltered harbor, numerous groups of hardy fishermen, with sea and sun-tanned complexions, play marbles for hours at a time, surrounded by many interested onlookers, remarks London Tit-Bits. Grizzled old mariners, many of whom preserve the old Cornish custom of wearing small gold earrings, pace the quayside in parties of three and four, following the "walk four steps and turn," which is all they are able to do on the clear space on the decks of their luggers.

There is a legend about the cats of St. Ives, but there was surely never another fishing town with so many cats. Each morning, when the night's catches of mackerel, dogfish and skate are brought ashore, the fish are cleaned on tables placed near the water's edge and scores of cats have a glorious feed on the offal.

Failures Caused by Lack of Initiative

One of the greatest improvements of the automobile is the self-starter, now found on all but the cheapest kinds of cars, which need to be cranked by hand.

The device suggests the reflection that a very large proportion of the human family require something of like nature.

They lack initiative, voluntary effort; they need cranking in the form of orders or directions before doing anything worth while.

The men and women who succeed best in life and get the most out of it are of the self-starter type. They don't wait to be told or advised what to undertake, but proceed of their own accord to do things.

The great inventors, such as Edison, are all of this sort, says the Sacramento Bee. They are originators, not mere followers or imitators, and they rank among the chief benefactors of the world.

So it is in business, literature, art, the various industries, and in fact, all occupations. Success in each is dependent chiefly upon originality or initiative.

Millions Till Soil in China

After a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture of conditions in China the conclusions given out were that 59,000,000 farmers with their families till the soil in that country of the Orient.

English and Perfumes

Perfumes did not come into vogue in England until the reign of Queen Elizabeth in the Fifteenth century. But in Scotland even as late as 1793 there were no manufacturers of perfumes on any extensive scale.

Murphy's Night At St. Peter's

"Chief" Scores Twenty-Five Points in Main Event, in Which The Lyceum Team Trounced Fleischmanns—Joe Gets Scoring Honors in Opening Contest, in Which the Saints Lost to Chryslers.

Joe Murphy, or Joie the Flash, arched the sphere at St. Peter's Basketball court Monday evening, playing with the Chrysler Five, for a total of fifteen points, the highest score of the game. Murphy's work besides being good from the shooting angle was also good on the floor and in passing. Up in front with Murphy was Stumpf, who scored 9 points and paired well in this position. The Chrysler's got away to an early start and were never headed, when the game was in full swing. Score at first half 19 to 11. In the closing round the Saints cut down this lead, the final score being 39 to 35.

In the Junior Saints scoring column, W. Rice registered a total of 12 points, taking second high honors of the game.

Saints Win Handily.

In the main event the St. Peter's Lyceum quintet drubbed the Fleischmanns team by a 55 to 31 tally. "Chief" Murphy's work was the salient factor in falling up the large score for the winners. Murphy caged 12 from the floor and one from the foul line, a total of 25 points. Joe Koenig, paired in front with Murphy, was second best scorer, gleaming a total of 18 points for his evening's work.

Murphy and Koenig get great credit for their shooting ability, but the remaining Saints' players' work on the floor and in passing, were the means by which they secured opportunity to shoot so often. The winners got away to an early lead and were never in danger. The score at first half saw St. Peter's sporting a 17 point lead, score 29 to 12.

Herman did the best shooting for the losers, caging a total of 12 points. In the final half the Saints increased their lead, the final scoring
